U.S. Department of Veterans’ Affairs (VA) employees, in conjunction with employees from your State Approving Agency, are committed to assisting the GI Bill education benefit recipients affected by the closure of the Argosy Universities. With the sudden closure of the schools, you may no longer receive GI Bill Education benefits, including the monthly housing allowance (MHA), even if your future enrollment at Argosy University was previously submitted to VA for payment. In the unlikely event that VA pays you for an enrollment period that starts after the school’s closure date, VA may create a debt for such payments. If a debt letter is generated to you, you may want to review the debt waiver request process.

VA Authority:

VA administers the GI Bill and makes determinations related to veteran education benefit eligibility and payments. VA also regulates entitlement awarded to veterans and performs all calculations regarding payment made and entitlement charged to your benefits account. All questions regarding eligibility and payment of GI Bill benefits must be directed to VA.
Please note the Harry W. Colmery Veterans Assistance Act of 2017 provided VA with legal authority to restore GI Bill entitlement, during specific situations. For additional information, please go to: https://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill/fgib/restoration.asp

GI Bill education benefit recipients, may contact the VA Education Call Center at 1-888-442-4551 or visit the GI Bill website by clicking http://www.benefits.va.gov/gibill/ and click on “Contact Us” and then “Ask a Question” to send an email to VA.

Western Association of Colleges and Schools (WASC) – the accrediting agency of Argosy University

The Commission and staff of WASC are committed to doing all they can to assist students who have been impacted by the closures. Their top priority is to work with Argosy University and other accredited colleges and universities to facilitate students’ ability to continue their education. Resource pages will be created to provide students with information. The pages will be accessible from the WASC website.

ED will post information for students on its closed school page located at http://StudentAid.gov/closures Information will include a student’s eligibility for a closed school loan discharge, information about transfer options and teach-outs, how to obtain your student records, Federal Pell Grant restoration procedures and state tuition reimbursement fund information. The financial aid office at your new school will be able to determine your remaining 2018-19 Pell Grant eligibility if you are a current Federal Pell Grant recipient who is transferring to a new school. From the aforementioned web page, you will also be able to see Frequently Asked Questions.

ED will also send individual emails to impacted students to describe their options and to let students know about ED sponsored webinars and partners hosting transfer fairs and student meetings.

NOTE: A student who transfers credits to complete their program is generally not eligible for a closed school loan discharge.
